ABOUT CAILIN

Stone Coated Steel Roof Tiles

ABOUT CAILIN

Our company Cailin® is one of the largest roof tile manufacturing enterprises in China. We are located in the Jinghai Development Zone in Tianjin, China, occupying an area of 15,000 square meters. We are a professional roof system supplier that integrates research and development, production, sales, and service.

We have four fully automated production lines for colorful stone-coated roofing tiles, and we have introduced advanced production technology from South Korea and New Zealand. We use corrosion-resistant aluminum-zinc steel as the base material, excellent weather-resistant acrylic resin as the bonding agent, and high-temperature ceramic sintered stone granules as the coating.

The design and manufacturing of our coated steel roofing can withstand extreme heat and cold weather, strong winds, and heavy rains. Stone-coated metal roof tiles can protect your home from the forces of nature because the tiles are designed to overlap and interlock into a horizontal fixing system. This horizontal fixing system, with right-angle fastening, can withstand hurricanes, heavy snow, and earthquakes. The granular stone surface provides additional weather protection for your roof.

In addition to our exceptional products, we offer comprehensive marketing and technical support, as well as after-sales service to ensure the utmost satisfaction of our customers.
